

English 3 Final Exam Review

Richard Cuminale

Spring 2019

1 Sentence Expansion Words and Techniques

Make sure that you are clear on the purpose and correct grammatical use of each term or concept. You should be able to identify each in an example sentence and create your own sentences. Your sentences should also be punctuated correctly.

- Because
- But
- So
- Appositives
- However
- Therefore
- Yet
- Independent and Dependent Clauses / Complex Sentences
- Parallel Structure

2 Writing Process

Draw below the diagram that represents the writing process as it works while you write:

Draw below the diagram that represents how the writer's focus and priorities change over time.

What is Exploratory Writing?

Be able to list examples of Exploratory Writing:

- Annotation
- Free-writing
- Summarizing
- Clustering / Word Web
- Outlining

What is Clarifying Writing?

Be able to list examples of Clarifying Writing:

- Introduction
- Outlining
- Organizing
- Compressing
- Proofreading

3 Narrative Analysis

On the final you must list and define the five narrative elements.

1. Setting:
2. Character:
3. Conflict:
4. Plot:
5. Point of View (Storyteller):

How do you discover the conflict in a narrative?

4 Poetry Analysis

On the final you must define the following 5 terms correctly and be prepared to discover and explain the metaphor in a provided literary text. They are not the only terms you should know upon moving up from English 3, but they are the most important.

- Imagery
- Metaphor
- Simile
- Stanza
- Symbol

4.1 Analysis Practice

Discover and describe below the metaphor in the attached poetry selections.

5 Literary Analysis Essay

“By Any Other Name” by Santha Rama Rau

Read the narrative essay, “By Any Other Name,” by Santha Rama Rau. Using the prompt below, respond in a focused, well organized essay that has an introduction, conclusion, body paragraphs, and text evidence.

Essay Prompt: Analyze the relationship between the two students, Santha and Premilla and the British.

Notes:

- You may want to consider literary elements such as imagery, characterization, selection of detail, and structure in your response.
- You may use your annotated story and any other notes/organizers prepared prior to the final exam.
- Include an introduction that gives the context of the essay and makes a clear thesis statement.
- Be sure to make clear, consistent references to the story in your analysis.

You may bring your annotated text, notes, and outline, but your essay must be written on the paper provided on the day of the final exam.